Feminist Theology: A Basic Understanding

An introduction to the subject of feminist theology.

This presentation seeks to provide the audience with a basic understanding of feminist theology. Feminism has become a problematic word within United States culture, and this presentation seeks to unpack what the term “feminism” really means as well as show all that the study of feminist theology has done to change the world. This presentation also focuses on teaching skills that congregations and other groups might use in their future ministry and community work.

The length of this presentation can be adjusted from 30 to 120 minutes.

Katie M. Deaver, Ph.D. recently completed her Ph.D. in Feminist Theology at the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago. Deaver holds a B.A. in Religion and Music from Luther College in Decorah, IA, as well as MATS and Th.M. degrees from the Lutheran School of Theology at Chicago. Her dissertation explored the connections between the Christian understanding of atonement theology and the prevalence of domestic violence within the context of the United States. Her other areas of interest include the connection between power and violence, sexual ethics, and working toward the elimination of the oppression and exploitation of women and girls around the world.
